

Northern Ireland Developer Conference

Information for Sponsors

The Northern Ireland Developer Conference is a one-day event for developers being held at Queen's University, Belfast on 10th June 2017. The goal of NIDC is to be an inspiring day of talks across the development spectrum, showcasing the great work that local developers are doing and the technologies they're using for their creations, plus other cool and exciting stuff from the great wide world of software. We anticipate approximately 250 attendees from across Northern Ireland.

We are now seeking sponsorship to help us run a high quality event. NIDC is a non-profit event, and all sponsorship income will go towards running costs. In return for your kind investment, the following benefits are available.
